Union Delays Strike

No Further Rail Walkouts Slated

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—A threatened nationwide railroad strike was postponed today by the brotherhoods of railway conductors and railway switchmen.

A spokesman for the unions said that no further strike action would be taken for the time being "out of respect for President Truman," who, through his assistant, John R. Steelman, is attempting to settle the dispute.

The strike of terminal workers in Cleveland, Louisville and St. Paul, as well as on two short line roads, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, already has crippled defense production.

The brotherhoods are asking that present 48-hour pay be maintained while their members go on a 40-hour week. Their demand has been turned down by the carriers and by a Presidential fact-finding board. The carriers, however, have upped the ante proposed by the board.

MEETINGS called at the White House by Steelman so far have produced no sign of agreement, as the presidential assistant met separately with union and road representatives. The last meeting, yesterday afternoon, broke up with no sign of settlement.

Both carriers and union representatives, however, stood by for a further call from Steelman today.

There was no sign that the President contemplated immediate seizure of the roads, a step demanded by the brotherhoods. Continuation of the walkout, however, might force Mr. Truman to take seizure action.

The unions' action in delaying, for an indefinite period, any further strikes, allayed temporarily the threat of a nationwide strike that could paralyze United States rail operations.

Pickaway County To Send 4 Men For Induction

Pickaway County is to supply four men for induction into the armed services Sept. 8.

State selective service headquarters Wednesday announced that Pickaway County will be one of 42 Ohio counties called upon to supply a total of 771 men for the second induction call.

Local men were bypassed in the first call for induction, scheduled for Sept. 1. Two other calls are scheduled for Sept. 15 and 22, while a special call will be made for "delinquents"—those who have failed in some way to comply with the draft law—on Sept. 29.

County draft board officials report that the names of the inductees are to be withheld, as well as the names of the persons who are to be called for physical exams in the future.

A contingent of 16 more men are scheduled to travel to Col. (Continued on Page Two)

Canadian Rail Strike To Leave 400,000 Jobless

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—Canadian officials estimated today that some 400,000 persons in rail-dependent industries will be thrown out of work this week as the result of the national railway strike.

No trains moved and all telegraph lines were shut down in the walkout of 125,000 non-operating employees of the railroads. Trucks, buses, automobiles and planes were mobilized for emergency transport of essentials.

THIRTY THOUSAND PERSONS gather in Mooseheart, Ill., to dedicate the $1,500,000 interdenominational "House of God." Known as the "Child City," Mooseheart is maintained by the Loyal Order of Moose for sons and daughters of deceased members. The new cathedral is designed as a place of worship for all faiths.

QUICK ACTION EXPECTED

House Gets GI Family Allowance Legislation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Senate today sent to the House allowance legislation easing the financial burden for families of reservists and National Guardsmen called into service for the Korean crisis.

Quick House action is expected on the measure assuring allowances ranging from $85 to $155 a month—partly from deductions from the enlisted man's pay and partly from government help.

By voice vote, the Senate passed the measure carrying a family allowance program retroactive to July 1.

The measure sets a policy of not retaining in service men with more than three dependents if it imposes severe financial hardship on their families.

However, it leaves final determination to the military branches by directing that "to the greatest practicable extent consistent with the needs of the several armed services" the secretaries must "refrain" from keeping men with more than three dependents if they lack other means of support.

THE SENATE bill authorizes deductions from servicemen's pay of $40 to $80 a month, depending on their pay, and the supplementing of that with government help.

Bill Drafted To Register Reds

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 23—Solicitor John McDonald of East Liverpool is drafting a bill to require Communists to register with the city's police department.

The bill also would provide for dismissal of any Communist on the municipal payroll.

Safety-director Lawrence S. Bloor proposed that any Red party member working for the city be fired "without an opportunity to appear before the Civil Service Commission."

AT THE SAME time, the spokesmen repudiated left-wing groups which endorsed the strike. One union official declared:

"We neither welcome nor will we accept the support of such Moscow stooges."

Seriousness of the situation was underscored by the Canadian Federal Labor Department's estimate that many in (Continued on Page Two)

Armed Services Chairman Tydings (D) Md., asked quick action on the Senate bill, declaring that the question is "of vital importance" to the families of thousands of national guardsmen and reservists who have been called into active duty.

Some of those men, Tydings told the Senate, already are in the front lines in Korea.

Six Injured In Auto Crash Near Hillsboro

A half dozen Circleville persons were injured late Tuesday near Hillsboro when the car in which they were riding was struck almost head-on by another auto.

The mishap occurred at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday at the east edge of Fayetteville on Route 50, when an auto operated west on the highway was struck from the rear by an auto driven by Ralph Berwanger, 27, of Fayetteville.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Cupp, Mrs. Ed Cupp, Eleanor Cupp, Phyllis Cupp and Carolyn Garrett, all of Circleville.

After crashing into the rear of the one auto, the Berwanger auto reportedly swerved into the path of the Cupp car.

Doyle Cupp, the driver, suffered bruised knees and minor scalp lacerations; his wife, Frances, suffered a severe forehead laceration, slight concussion and lacerated hands; Mrs. Ed Cupp suffered a bruised jaw and lacerated hands; Eleanor Cupp, 11, suffered a lacerated right ear and knee injuries; Phyllis Cupp, 12, suffered a left knee injury; and Carolyn Garrett, 11, was shaken up. The Circleville persons were treated in Highlands Community hospital.

Berwanger has been ordered to appear in Fayetteville mayor's court on an accusation of reckless operation.

UN Warships Bombed By Reds

KOREA, Aug. 23—North Korean enemy planes bombed and strafed United Nations warships today for the first time in the Korean war, now in its ninth week.

Two Russian-type Yak planes attacked the British destroyer Comus, while two other Yaks strafed and bombed a South Korean patrol ship.

A Fifth Air Force communiqué did not say whether the warships were damaged.

The communiqué likewise did not say where the attacks occurred but the location was presumed to be in the Yellow Sea off Seoul's port of Inchon where British ships are known to be operating.

Dewey Asks UN Airing Of Formosa

Warns Against Waiting Too Long

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—Governor Thomas E. Dewey called on the United States today to take the problem of Formosa to the United Nations at once, without waiting for "catastrophes to happen."

Dewey, speaking before an Ottawa audience that included leading Canadian officials, warned that a Communist offensive against the Nationalist bastion could divide the free peoples unless they reach agreement in advance.

The Republican leader suggested that the fate of the former Japanese-controlled island might be put up to a peace treaty conference instead of the United Nations.

Warning that the Russians have prepared weapons for splitting the democratic front, Dewey declared:

"Formosa is one of the biggest weapons in that arsenal and it should be our common purpose to blunt and destroy that weapon."

"We must stop waiting for catastrophes to happen and then rushing into the United Nations and to our own inadequate defenses, else we shall not live through many more crises."

"WE SHOULD not wait until Formosa is attacked and then find out whether we are united or divided. We should forthwith take the problem of Formosa before the United Nations or to the peace treaty councils and find out where the free world stands."

Dewey pointed out that Great Britain's and India's formal recognition of the Chinese Communist government may imply recognition of the Communist claim to Formosa.

The titular GOP chief then added:

"On the other hand, my own government is committed to the defense of Formosa."

"What will happen, therefore, when the Communist offensive is launched against Formosa? Will the Communists then have succeeded in splitting us apart? Will the councils of the free people (Continued on Page Two)

$475,000 School Bond Issue To Go On Fall Ballot

Circleville board of education is expected to place a building bond issue for $475,000 on the ballot here this fall for construction of a new athletic plant.

The figure was provided during a special session of the board Tuesday by Architect F. F. Glass of Columbus.

Glass told the board the actual construction of a proposed new gym as planned would cost an estimated $415,000, while an additional $35,000 is expected to be required for purchase of land.

The remainder of money expected to be asked for the project would be used for equipping the new structure.

As tentatively planned, the new structure would be situated just northeast of the present high school building, fronting East Mill street.

The proposed building is expected to be capable of seating more than 2,000 persons, be equipped with an auditorium and music room and have two small practice basketball courts which could be converted into one large court for games.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt has been asked by the board to complete details preliminary to filing the anticipated bond issue resolution.

U.S. SPEED WAS SURPRISE

Top Brass Convinced Major War Not Wanted By Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—Top United States officials are convinced today that neither the Soviet Union nor Communist China wants to become involved in a major war at the present time.

The Korean war is cited by some policy planners as bearing out this theory. They note that the peoples republic of North Korea is about the only satellite state with which Moscow does not have a mutual assistance treaty.

Therefore, they argue, the Kremlin could induce the North Korean forces to march without committing themselves.

Surveying the area around the Iron Curtain, one expert voiced the opinion that another move similar to that in Korea could not be undertaken without involving Russian forces.

The expert noted that in Iran the Red Army itself would have to move. In Poland, Hungary and Romania, he pointed out, Russia not only has a mutual assistance pact with each but is also in military occupation and could not avoid responsibility for any act of aggression by their forces.

THE KOREAN move, this source estimated, was caused by Russian desires to get the U. S. influence out of Asia. However, he added, the Soviets' concern is primarily Japan, which has always been antagonistic to Russia and is the only power in the Far East capable of producing an effective military machine.

The Kremlin, he said, hoped to get an early peace treaty with Japan and to have more of a voice in controlling the country.

The fact that the U. S. moved in so quickly after the Korean aggression, the expert said, both "surprised and chagrined" the Russians. They had anticipated that the entire peninsula would be taken before any counter-strength could arrive.

The source also declared that the Russians as playing a "stupid" game of diplomacy. Had they not imposed the Berlin blockade and then taken other measures to arouse public opinion against them, he said, there would have been no Marshall Plan or North Atlantic Alliance and the U. S. might have retreated to isolationism.

The spokesman indicated, however, that the tank-building program is to go forward on an even larger scale, with requests for deficiency appropriations being submitted to Congress if necessary.

He said "certain large firms located strategically throughout the country are getting ready to produce tanks. They are in touch with the Detroit arsenal, and know what they are going to produce."

THE U. S. does not have a heavy tank at present, but the spokesman said specifications have been laid down for one that will out-gun and out-maneuver Russia's 60-ton JS III, which carries a 122 millimeter gun.

He said the gun on the new U. S. heavy may be as large as 155 millimeters, and that improved velocity and new types of ammunition will further increase its firepower.

The spokesman could not say whether any of the new tanks will get into operation in time to aid troops in the Korean war, which Defense Secretary Johnson estimates may be over in eight months.

The situation at present is that Cadillac Motor Co., has gone into production on the new light tank, the T-41, and parts are being produced for a new medium tank to succeed the 48-ton General Patton.

Ko-Red Push Is Expected In 48 Hours

Real Struggle Still To Come

TOKYO, Aug. 24—(Thursday)—An entire Communist division fled from mountain-top positions north of Taegu late Wednesday under fierce counter-attack of tank-led American and South Korean troops.

The jolting counter-blow was designed to disrupt an expected Red drive on Taegu by six Red divisions—possibly 50,000 to 60,000 enemy troops.

The U. S. 27th (Wolfhound) Regiment and the South Korean first division teamed up to hurl the North Korean 13th Division from its strategic peak positions.

The air-supported United Nations counter-blow was sprung after an estimated 1,500 flanking Red troops set up a new road block behind American lines only eight or nine miles above Taegu. That forced the 27th Regiment's rear echelon units to dig in three or four miles north of the fortress city.

U. S. ATTACKS aimed at wiping out the enemy road block were launched at dawn but an American official spokesman said more than 10 hours later the outcome of this action was not yet determined.

The North Korean 13th Division, retreating from its prepared positions about a dozen miles above Taegu, set off explosive charges on the main road leading down from Kunwi to cover its retreat and slow pursuit by American tanks.

The U. S. Army's crack Wolfhound Regiment and the South Korean First Division on its right (east) followed the Red 13th Division through difficult mountain passes in their successful uphill battle against the numerically superior Communists.

The counter-action was unleashed as other U. S. and South Korean mainline troops closer to Taegu braced themselves to meet what Col. John Michaelis of Lancaster, Pa., said is expected to be "the strongest all-out North Korean (Continued on Page Two)

'NEEDED TO FILL GAP' Chance Seen For UMT Law Enactment Before January

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Senate's foremost champion of universal military training today predicted that if Congress acts swiftly UMT has a good chance of becoming a reality before January.

Armed Services Committee Chairman Tydings (D) Md., said his group will have the UMT bill he authored ready for floor action next week. If the Senate acts speedily, he said, the House can complete action on the bill despite the scheduled electioneering recess that will cut into the remaining days of the current session.

The committee launched its drive for passage yesterday with strong pleas for UMT from defense leaders. Today it hears an attack on the peacetime, one-year training plan by the Society of Friends, or Quakers, and the National Council Against Conscription.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, also taking the stand, is expected to ask for strict surveillance of the morals of the 17 to 26-year-old trainees. Despite growing sentiment for immediate enactment of UMT in the Senate, no move has been made as yet in the House. The lower chamber's last attempt at UMT was scuttled in the Rules Committee in 1948.

LAWMAKERS in both houses and in both parties, however, are expected to be activated by Defense Secretary Johnson's declaration that UMT is needed immediately to fill "a serious gap in our national security program."

30 PERCENT IMPROVEMENT

U.S. To Produce New Tank To Surpass Soviet Armor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Army announced today that it will produce a new heavy tank that will "whip the Joseph Stalin III under all circumstances" and end Russian superiority in land armor.

An army spokesman disclosed that military leaders have discarded a World War II policy of emphasizing maneuverability over firepower in tanks.

From now on, he said, firepower will receive the first emphasis and American guns and ammunition will not be matched anywhere in the world.

The spokesman said that new light and medium U. S. tanks, just going into production, will show an average 30 per cent improvement in firepower, agility and armor protection compared to those of World War II.

THE U. S. does not have a heavy tank at present, but the spokesman said specifications have been laid down for one that will out-gun and out-maneuver Russia's 60-ton JS III, which carries a 122 millimeter gun.

He said the gun on the new U. S. heavy may be as large as 155 millimeters, and that improved velocity and new types of ammunition will further increase its firepower.

The spokesman could not say whether any of the new tanks will get into operation in time to aid troops in the Korean war, which Defense Secretary Johnson estimates may be over in eight months.

The situation at present is that Cadillac Motor Co., has gone into production on the new light tank, the T-41, and parts are being produced for a new medium to succeed the 48-ton General Patton.

Under questioning there he revealed the position of 22 Communist guns in an apple orchard which American flyers hit with fire bombs.

The enemy officer said he had served with Chinese Communist forces but has been in the North Korean Army three years.

'NEEDED TO FILL GAP'

Chance Seen For UMT Law Enactment Before January

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Senate's foremost champion of universal military training today predicted that if Congress acts swiftly UMT has a good chance of becoming a reality before January.

Armed Services Committee Chairman Tydings (D) Md., said his group will have the UMT bill he authored ready for floor action next week. If the Senate acts speedily, he said, the House can complete action on the bill despite the scheduled electioneering recess that will cut into the remaining days of the current session.

The committee launched its drive for passage yesterday with strong pleas for UMT from defense leaders. Today it hears an attack on the peacetime, one-year training plan by the Society of Friends, or Quakers, and the National Council Against Conscription.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, also taking the stand, is expected to ask for strict surveillance of the morals of the 17 to 26-year-old trainees.

Despite growing sentiment for immediate enactment of UMT in the Senate, no move has been made as yet in the House. The lower chamber's last attempt at UMT was scuttled in the Rules Committee in 1948.

LAWMAKERS in both houses and in both parties, however, are expected to be activated by Defense Secretary Johnson's declaration that UMT is needed immediately to fill "a serious gap in our national security program."

Ko-Red Push Is Expected In 48 Hours

Real Struggle Still To Come

TOKYO, Aug. 24—(Thursday)—An entire Communist division fled from mountain-top positions north of Taegu late Wednesday under fierce counter-attack of tank-led American and South Korean troops.

The jolting counter-blow was designed to disrupt an expected Red drive on Taegu by six Red divisions—possibly 50,000 to 60,000 enemy troops.

The U. S. 27th (Wolfhound) Regiment and the South Korean first division teamed up to hurl the North Korean 13th Division from its strategic peak positions.

The air-supported United Nations counter-blow was sprung after an estimated 1,500 flanking Red troops set up a new road block behind American lines only eight or nine miles above Taegu. That forced the 27th Regiment's rear echelon units to dig in three or four miles north of the fortress city.

U. S. ATTACKS aimed at wiping out the enemy road block were launched at dawn but an American official spokesman said more than 10 hours later the outcome of this action was not yet determined.

The North Korean 13th Division, retreating from its prepared positions about a dozen miles above Taegu, set off explosive charges on the main road leading down from Kunwi to cover its retreat and slow pursuit by American tanks.

The U. S. Army's crack Wolfhound Regiment and the South Korean First Division on its right (east) followed the Red 13th Division through difficult mountain passes in their successful uphill battle against the numerically superior Communists.

The counter-action was unleashed as other U. S. and South Korean mainline troops closer to Taegu braced themselves to meet what Col. John Michaelis of Lancaster, Pa., said is expected to be "the strongest all-out North Korean offensive yet."

Ko-Red Prisoners Plead For Food

TAEGU, Aug. 23—Four captured North Korean prisoners pleaded today for food.

They said their unit had not eaten in two days.

This incident gave further proof to the belief at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo that enemy troops along the Waegwan-Kunwi axis above Taegu are running out of food.

Ko-Red Push Is Expected In 48 Hours

"If we break the back of the enemy at this point," said the commander of the 27th Regiment, "we may break him permanently."

"I believe the North Koreans have thrown in just about everything they have got—at least, we will know damn soon."

The counter-push began after the Americans and South Koreans north of the city had destroyed 11 of 14 Red tanks seen in the sector and had killed 1,500 enemy troops.

ELSEWHERE on the Korean front the U. S. 25th Regiment's tenacious Negro 24th Regiment held firm in the south against a renewed battalion-strength onslaught on bloody Sobuksan ridge. This height, the top of which remained in U. S. hands up until Wednesday midday, lies between Tundoc and Pongnam, only 30 miles west of the all-important entry port of Pusan.

American field commanders said the counter-advance was but a "prelude" to the expected decisive battle that will reach its full fury after the invaders launch their expected offensive. They said the United Nations have won this first preliminary battle, but that they realize the real struggle for Taegu, northwest anchor of the UN defense front, is just getting under way.

These field commanders said they must prepare to deliver a "crowning blow" Thursday or Friday against the anticipated enemy all-out assault.

American "workhorse" Mustang fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and swooped low to blast and strafe the Communists on the peak in order to soften the enemy for the UN ground attack.

The Reds were driven off the height even though they had the advantages of numbers and commanding positions at prepared defenses.

The closely coordinated American-South Korean storming of the mountain coincided with attacks by other U. S. and South Korean units to wipe out Red infiltrators behind Michaelis' 27th Regiment.

Johnson assured the committee, which strongly agreed with Tydings on the urgency of the program, that President Truman and defense leaders would inaugurate UMT as soon as the Korean situation permits.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told the senators that with a background of UMT, National Guard and reserve units could be prepared for "certain types of combat" in as little as two months.

SEN. BRIDGES, N. H., ranking minority committee member flatly predicted that UMT "will get through this time."

Backing Bridges' optimism was American Legion Commander George N. Craig's claim in committee testimony that 78 percent of persons polled recently also favor immediate enactment of UMT.

Answers to some of the objections expected to be raised against UMT are already provided in the Tydings Bill.

dustries will soon be tied up by the lack of transport for their raw materials and finished products.

The strike has already thrown more than 200,000 operating and clerical employees of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific out of work.

In summoning parliament yesterday to a special meeting, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent warned:

"The suspension of railway and telegraphic service, particularly with the world situation we face, will quickly create a serious emergency and the government will have to act to protect the vital interests of the whole national community."

One possibility much discussed is legislation making arbitration compulsory in disputes that affect the vital public interest.

Government officials meanwhile planned emergency transport to keep isolated communities supplied with foodstuffs. In the north and west sections of the nation, communities are spread out with great distances between.

High School Marching Band Practice Set

First full 1950 practice for the crack Circleville high school marching band will be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the school.

Truman Eberly, director of the band, said practice sessions for the youngsters will be held from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m. Aug. 29, 30 and 31 and Sept. 1, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Eberly said that a portion of the practice time will be spent in marching and drill work while the remainder will be for music rehearsal.

The CHS band will make its first appearance before the public Sept. 15 during the Circleville-Holy Rosary football game.

New members into the unit are to receive special attention this year. A special rehearsal has been arranged for the new members for 3 p. m. Monday, followed by a similar practice at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

"IF THERE are any instrumentalists who have recently moved into the city and can qualify for the band I would like to have them appear at the practices for new members," Eberly said.

New members expected to join the senior band this fall are Ann Downing, oboe; Robert Jones and Will Tomlinson, clarinets; Mary Ellen Rader, bassoon; Ruth Hill, tenor saxophone; James Phillips and Bill Thompson, trombones; Nancy Cline, alto horn; and Joyce Troutman, flute.

Drum majorettes Phyllis Dresbach, Beverly Elisea, Ann Stocklen, Marlene Mancini and Jackie Smith have been working this summer on baton-twirling routines.

The youngsters recently received high honors during an appearance in the McArthur centennial celebration.

Now the youngsters are preparing to enter team and individual contests for state honors during the Ohio State Fair Saturday, while planning also to show their talents during the Marion County Fair.

ples in the United Nations then be divided?

"The oriental mind of our persecutors will then delight to see the Western diplomats engaged in the most difficult of decisions concerning United Nations action for Formosa."

"THE U. S. does not want one square inch of Formosa. We insist, however, that no other nation shall take that island by force of arms. This problem should be settled at the peace treaty conference, or, like all other points of tension, at the United Nations."

Dewey emphasized that because he holds no official government position he can speak freely. He asserted that only the "fear of atomic attack" holds the Soviet Union back in Central Europe and Asia. The Russians, he said, plan to invade Iran and Iraq, and then proceed through Israel to the Mediterranean, cutting off Europe's oil.

KENNAN, just leaving for a year of study at the Princeton Institute of Advanced Studies, said:

"I would say that while we should be prepared for any eventuality, we shouldn't make the mistake of regarding war as inevitable and thereby writing off the chances for peace."

"We have got to maintain an adequate defense posture, if necessary, over a long period of time."

"We have got to give our friends the impression that we are dependable people and reliable allies but that their interest is as strong as ours in achieving a more stable and happy world."

"I'd recommend that, now entering a period where military and political decisions are upmost, that we avoid hasty and emotional judgments and deal with our problems coolly and carefully, realizing that now for the first time as a nation we are coming to maturity and a position of world leadership."

dependent of a man in the first three pay grades. He allots $40 from his pay and the government puts $45 with it.

The family of the serviceman with three or more dependents gets a minimum of $115, with the government granting $75 of it.

FOR THE next two pay grades, the minimum is $135—$60 from the serviceman's pay and $75 from the government.

Three or more dependents of a serviceman of the top two pay grades would get $155—$80 from his allotment and $75 from the government.

For two dependents, the government aid would be $67.50, making a total allowance of $107.50 for the lower three pay grades, $127.50 for the next two and $147.50 for the top two pay grades.

Johnston assured the committee, which strongly agreed with Tydings on the urgency of the program, that President Truman and defense leaders would inaugurate UMT as soon as the Korean situation permits.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told the senators that with a background of UMT, National Guard and reserve units could be prepared for "certain types of combat" in as little as two months.

SEN. BRIDGES, N. H., ranking minority committee member flatly predicted that UMT "will get through this time."

Backing Bridges' optimism was American Legion Commander George N. Craig's claim in committee testimony that 78 percent of persons polled recently also favor immediate enactment of UMT.

Answers to some of the objections expected to be raised against UMT are already provided in the Tydings Bill.

dustries will soon be tied up by the lack of transport for their raw materials and finished products.

The strike has already thrown more than 200,000 operating and clerical employees of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific out of work.

In summing up parliament yesterday to a special meeting, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent warned:

"The suspension of railway and telegraphic service, particularly with the world situation we face, will quickly create a serious emergency and the government will have to act to protect the vital interests of the whole national community."

One possibility much discussed is legislation making arbitration compulsory in disputes that affect the vital public interest.

Government officials meanwhile planned emergency transport to keep isolated communities supplied with foodstuffs. In the north and west sections of the nation, communities are spread out with great distances between.

High School Marching Band Practice Set

First full 1950 practice for the crack Circleville high school marching band will be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the school.

Truman Eberly, director of the band, said practice sessions for the youngsters will be held from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m. Aug. 29, 30 and 31 and Sept. 1, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Eberly said that a portion of the practice time will be spent in marching and drill work while the remainder will be for music rehearsal.

The CHS band will make its first appearance before the public Sept. 15 during the Circleville-Holy Rosary football game.

New members into the unit are to receive special attention this year. A special rehearsal has been arranged for the new members for 3 p. m. Monday, followed by a similar practice at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

"IF THERE are any instrumentalists who have recently moved into the city and can qualify for the band I would like to have them appear at the practices for new members," Eberly said.

New members expected to join the senior band this fall are Ann Downing, oboe; Robert Jones and Willa Tomlinson, clarinets; Mary Ellen Rader, bassoon; Ruth Hill, tenor saxophone; James Phillips and Bill Thompson, trombones; Nancy Cline, alto horn; and Joyce Troutman, flute.

Drum majorettes Phyllis Dresbach, Beverly Elsea, Ann Stocklen, Marlene Mancini and Jackie Smith have been working this summer on baton-twirling routines.

The youngsters recently received high honors during an appearance in the McArthur centennial celebration.

Now the youngsters are preparing to enter team and individual contests for state honors during the Ohio State Fair Saturday, while planning also to show their talents during the Marion County Fair.

Conservator For Estate Is Appointed

Financial Deals Under Scrutiny

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 23—Danbury Probate Judge Robert K. Watson has appointed a conservator for the estate of 67-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce. She is one of three elderly women whose financial relationships with a 48-year-old physician have been under official scrutiny.

No mention was made at the brief, closed door hearing today of Dr. Donald F. Gibson, who allegedly held a power of attorney over Mrs. Pierce's estate. The probate court petition, filed by a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Gantert, asked the appointment of a conservator because the elderly woman has been in very poor health.

Judge Watson named Mrs. Gantert's husband, Frederick, as conservator and directed him to submit an inventory of the estate within 60 days.

Witnesses at the hearings evaded newsmen by slipping out through a back door of the courthouse. Court officials said, however, that Dr. Gibson's name had not been brought into the proceedings.

Meanwhile Fairfield county Coroner Theodore Steiber announced in Bridgeport, Conn., that an inquest into the death of Miss Elizabeth May Ayres has been postponed for an additional week.

MISS AYRES, a 74-year-old patient of Dr. Gibson, will the physician an estate valued at "under $100,000." The inquest began on Aug. 8 and was recessed pending the arrival of a toxicological report. Coroner Steiber said today that this report has not yet been received.

Dr. Gibson was called as a witness at the inquest, but refused to testify on advice of counsel.

Thursday there will be a probate court hearing on Dr. Gibson's application to have Miss Ayres' will admitted as valid. That will be being contested by her first cousin, Fred Lockwood, 42.

Still to be approved by Judge Watson is Dr. Gibson's accounting as conservator of the estate of his elderly aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Neterson, who was declared incompetent two years ago on the physician's motion.

Reports to the court last April showed her $32,000 estate was down to $17,000.

GE Reported Eyeing Lustron

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—The General Electric Corporation of Schenectady, N. Y., may be dickering for purchase of the now-defunct Lustron Corp., but no one seems to know about it yet in Columbus.

Both Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood, through whose court the Reconstruction Finance Corp. forced foreclosure of the housing plant, and Court-appointed Receiver Clyde M. Foraker denied yesterday any knowledge of such negotiations.

Foraker said that as far as he knows the GE firm has never shown any apparent interest in purchasing the plant.

He added, however, that the Westinghouse Manufacturing Company and the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corp., both of Pittsburgh, have shown an interest in the plant.

It had been rumored that GE desires the plant as a site for the manufacture of jet propulsion equipment.

Justice Turner Reported Ill

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—Ohio Supreme Court Justice Edward C. Turner was reported by friends today in critical condition at Queen's hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The jurist was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage in Honolulu Aug. 9, the first day of a planned two-month rest in the Hawaiian Islands with his wife.

His son, Carl T. Turner, a Columbus attorney, already has made a special flight to his father's side.

The 78-year-old jurist was a Franklin County prosecutor for two terms, Ohio attorney general for two terms and a judge of the Franklin County common pleas court.

He was appointed to the high bench in 1940 by former Governor John W. Bricker.

Ship Was Sunk, But Not By Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Navy gave the lie today to a North Korean claim that the American destroyer "726" blew up Sunday after being shelled by Communist shore batteries in Northeast Korea.

The enemy Pyongyang radio quoted "local fishermen" as saying the ship sank 20 miles off shore following 27 hits scored by Red guns at Budockni.

The Navy admitted "726" had been sunk, but noted that was in June, 1944, in a World War II engagement. No other ship has number "726."

Gov. Duff Hits Atomic Spies In Moose Speech

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania declared that any so-called American who confesses giving atomic secrets to Russia should be hanged without a trial.

The Pennsylvania chief executive, a powerful figure in the Republican party nationally, was the top speaker at the opening session of the 62nd annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose in Chicago.

Said the tall, husky governor: "We must get tough with these so-called Americans who endanger our lives and the American way of life."

"Anyone who confesses (to such a crime) should be hanged and not given a trial and a probable prison sentence."

He denounced those in "high positions" who he said profess to be Americans while maintaining membership in the Communist party. Gov. Duff declared: "I know personally there is an organized endeavor to commit sabotage in our Pennsylvania steel mills."

"We must not allow anyone to stand on his Constitutional rights while that person uses those rights to destroy us."

He compared Hitler's "Mein Kampf" to Stalin's writings and noted:

"Stalin wrote that Democracies and the Soviet Union cannot exist side by side in the same world and events of the last few months show he means what he says."

Summer isn't all moonlight romance, sun and fun. Or have you found that out? Sometimes there's a rainy day—the day you realize that HE hasn't answered your last letter and apparently isn't going to.

When vacation started, you two promised to write to each other and the correspondence flourished for a while. Then, suddenly, no more letters from him. What's the answer? What's the next move?

There are two or three possible answers and only time will tell the real reason for those large chunks of silence from your favorite date. 1—Perhaps he likes you as much as ever, but just doesn't write letters readily. 2—Maybe he's a roaming Romeo whose interest is only for girls who are THERE and easily forgets the date who is absent. If this is true, he's not dependable and no loss. 3—He has definitely lost interest and perhaps is dating somebody else. A grim possibility, but one to be faced, and there's not much to be done about it.

But you can do this. Write to him once more. Give him one more chance to scribble a note and perhaps all will be well. When you write, don't ask "why haven't you written to me?", don't scold or refer to the lack of mail from him in any way, this would only make matters worse.

Instead, make yours a friendly, casual letter, not too long, mentioning things you know will interest him, people he knows and telling a funny incident, if possible, or relating something nice that you've heard about him—concluding with a question or two about his job, vacation, or favorite sport that will lead to an answer if he's inclined to write.

If he's still interested, this will encourage a letter from him. If you don't receive an answer, skip letter-writing and concentrate on having fun with other boys and girls. When you see him again, be friendly but casual (in case he still wants to be friends)

Conservator For Estate Is Appointed

Financial Deals Under Scrutiny

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 23—Danbury Probate Judge Robert K. Watson has appointed a conservator for the estate of 67-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce. She is one of three elderly women whose financial relationships with a 48-year-old physician have been under official scrutiny.

No mention was made at the brief, closed door hearing today of Dr. Donald F. Gibson, who allegedly held a power of attorney over Mrs. Pierce's estate. The probate court petition, filed by a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Ganter, asked the appointment of a conservator because the elderly woman has been in very poor health.

Judge Watson named Mrs. Ganter's husband, Frederick, as conservator and directed him to submit an inventory of the estate within 60 days.

Witnesses at the hearing evaded newsmen by slipping out through a back door of the courthouse. Court officials said, however, that Dr. Gibson's name had not been brought into the proceedings.

Meanwhile Fairfield county Coroner Theodore Steiber announced in Bridgeport, Conn., that an inquest into the death of Miss Elizabeth May Ayres has been postponed for an additional week.

MISS AYRES, a 74-year-old patient of Dr. Gibson, willed the physician an estate valued at "under $100,000." The inquest began on Aug. 8 and was recessed pending the arrival of a toxicological report. Coroner Steiber said today that this report has not yet been received.

Dr. Gibson was called as a witness at the inquest, but refused to testify on advice of counsel.

Thursday there will be a probate court hearing on Dr. Gibson's application to have Miss Ayres' will admitted as valid. That will be in contested by her first cousin, Fred Lockwood, 42.

Still to be approved by Judge Watson is Dr. Gibson's accounting as conservator of the estate of his elderly aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Neterson, who was declared incompetent two years ago on the physician's motion.

Reports to the court last April showed her $32,000 estate was down to $17,000.

Summer isn't all moonlight romance, sun and fun. Or have you found that out? Sometimes there's a rainy day—the day you realize that HE hasn't answered your last letter and apparently isn't going to.

When vacation started, you two promised to write to each other and the correspondence flourished for a while. Then, suddenly, no more letters from him. What's the answer? What's the next move?

There are two or three possible answers and only time will tell the real reason for those large chunks of silence from your favorite date. 1—Perhaps he likes you as much as ever, but just doesn't write letters readily. 2—Maybe he's a roaming Romeo whose interest is only for girls who are THERE and easily forgets the date who is absent. If this is true, he's not dependable and no loss. 3—He has definitely lost interest and perhaps is dating somebody else. A grim possibility, but one to be faced, and there's not much to be done about it.

But you can do this. Write to him once more. Give him one more chance to scribble a note and perhaps all will be well. When you write, don't ask "why haven't you written to me?", don't scold or refer to the lack of mail from him in any way, this would only make matters worse.

GE Reported Eyeing Lustron

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—The General Electric Corporation of Schenectady, N. Y., may be dickering for purchase of the now-defunct Lustron Corp., but no one seems to know about it yet in Columbus.

Both Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood, through whose court the Reconstruction Finance Corp. forced foreclosure of the housing plant, and Court-Appointed Receiver Clyde M. Foraker denied yesterday any knowledge of such negotiations.

Foraker said that as far as he knows the GE firm has never shown any apparent interest in purchasing the plant.

He added, however, that the Westinghouse Manufacturing Company and the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corp., both of Pittsburgh, have shown an interest in the plant.

It had been rumored that GE desires the plant as a site for the manufacture of jet propulsion equipment.

Justice Turner Reported Ill

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—Ohio Supreme Court Justice Edward C. Turner was reported by friends today in critical condition at Queen's hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The jurist was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage in Honolulu Aug. 9, the first day of a planned two-month rest in the Hawaiian Islands with his wife.

His son, Carl T. Turner, a Columbus attorney, already has made a special flight to his father's side.

The 78-year-old jurist was a Franklin County prosecutor for two terms, Ohio attorney general for two terms and a judge of the Franklin County common pleas court.

He was appointed to the high bench in 1940 by former Governor John W. Bricker.

Ship Was Sunk, But Not By Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Navy gave the lie today to a North Korean claim that the American destroyer "726" blew up Sunday after being shelled by Communist shore batteries in Northeast Korea.

The enemy Pyongyang radio quoted "local fishermen" as saying the ship sank 20 miles off shore following 27 hits scored by Red guns at Buduokni.

The Navy admitted "726" had been sunk, but noted that was in June, 1944, in a World War II engagement. No other ship has number "726."

Gov. Duff Hits Atomic Spies In Moose Speech

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 — Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania declared that any so-called American who confesses giving atomic secrets to Russia should be hanged without a trial.

The Pennsylvania chief executive, a powerful figure in the Republican party nationally, was the top speaker at the opening session of the 62nd annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose in Chicago.

Said the tall, husky governor: "We must get tough with these so-called Americans who endanger our lives and the American way of life."

"Anyone who confesses (to such a crime) should be hanged and not given a trial and a probable prison sentence."

He denounced those in "high positions" who he said profess to be Americans while maintaining membership in the Communist party. Gov. Duff declared: "I know personally there is an organized endeavor to commit sabotage in our Pennsylvania steel mills."

"We must not allow anyone to stand on his Constitutional rights while that person uses those rights to destroy us."

He compared Hitler's "Mein Kampf" to Stalin's writings and noted: "Stalin wrote that Democracies and the Soviet Union cannot exist side by side in the same world and events of the last few months show he means what he says."

Seven Railroad Cars Derailed

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 23—Seven cars of the New York central Ohio State Limited were derailed last night in Springfield when the streamliner passenger train apparently hit an open switch.

No one was injured in the accident, however, and all cars remained upright, according to state police.

FLYING ARTILLERY

IN THE earlier stages of the Korean fighting the cry from the infantry was for more tactical air support. It was given with the best that was on hand. At the very outset Air Force jets were relegated to a back seat because they were too fast—and could stay too short a time over the combat area—for tank busting and beating up on the enemy men and equipment.

Things are different now. Jets and Navy carrier planes are ranging the battlefield in support of the beleaguered infantry. The B-26 medium, and B-29 heavy, bombers had been carrying out their traditional "strategic" roles in knocking out bridges, assembly plants, and the like far behind the front.

Last week, GIs in their foxholes along the east bank of the Naktong, where the Reds had been massing for a Sunday punch, beheld an awesome sight. In flights of 10, huge B-29s swept in to make low level attacks. About 100 of the huge planes dropped 3,500 "all-purpose" bombs weighing 500 pounds each.

The bombers left an area roughly three by seven miles churned, charred and smoking. Into this small rectangle the Reds had crammed an estimated 60,000 men and their equipment.

How much actual damage the flying artillery inflicted is still being evaluated. But the Communists have been treated to a terrifying display. They were shown that the ground-air team has a great deal more adaptability in the pinch than has been displayed up to this time.

WOMEN FOR DEFENSE

AGAIN, as in World War II, women are to play an important part in production and defense. With division after division being called to active service, women will be desperately needed. This will be especially true if several million men are in uniform, which is not outside the realms of possibility.

At the present time eight million wives hold jobs. Two and a half million additional women are available for employment if necessary. It is the purpose of the government to take inventory of the nation's women available for war duty.

At the peak of production during the last war women were receiving 38 per cent of industrial pay rolls. It is hoped that, should the need arise, the thousands of women who donned slacks during the last war, and did such splendid service in behalf of victory, will again put on the familiar garb and volunteer for duty.

It used to be that the boy, reaching 21, was too old to act like a child. Now some of them do it when past 60.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As this war proceeds, it becomes clearer and clearer that those upon whom the President depends most are Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Oscar L. Chapman, secretary of interior, W. Averell Harriman, advisor on foreign affairs, and General Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. And about in that order. John R. Steelman of the presidential secretariat also plays an important role, particularly on labor matters.

Stuart Symington is a businessman who has shown unusual administrative ability in the organization of the Air Force as a separate arm of the national defense. As secretary of the Air Force, he made a valiant fight for a 70-group force and stuck by his guns in spite of presidential opposition. He and James Forrestal disagreed on the ratio between Navy and Air Force expenditures; he also disagreed with Louis Johnson on the ratio of the Air Force to the total budget. There can be no question as to his ability.

Oscar L. Chapman is a New Deal bureaucrat who is now secretary of interior. Except for a short period as a probation officer in Colorado, his entire public and business career and experience has been limited to the Department of Interior.

Averell Harriman is the son of the great railroad builder from whom he inherited a large fortune. He has had some business experience, mostly of a directorial type. He has the distinction of attending practically every one of Mr. Roosevelt's conferences with Churchill or Stalin or both. Actually, he attended more such conferences, I think, than any one other person including the President himself. In recent years, he has been a roving ambassador associated with ECA. He is perhaps the only official still in the government, with the exception of David K. Niles, who knows exactly where the body is buried. He seems to be the only one in Mr. Roosevelt's immediate entourage who has not written a book about Roosevelt and his doings.

Averell Harriman can be useful to the President and the country because he knows, or should know, precisely how the Russians managed to snatch the victory in World War II away from us. He was in on every phase of that transaction. Whether he approved of all the steps taken by President Roosevelt or not, he has never disclosed publicly.

General Omar Bradley needs no particular introduction. It grows increasingly obvious that Dean Acheson's influence has waned. He conducts a constant propaganda barrage against General Douglas MacArthur. The origin of these stories becomes known because the Acheson clique in the press and the radio are very well known and his line can be traced through them. He is being retained in office through Mr. Truman's sense of loyalty, but it is unthinkable that the President needs a secretary of state and also an advisor on foreign affairs, with the advisor senior in service and experience to the secretary. That sort of duplication can only mean that one is not needed.

The Black Rose

by THOMAS B. COSTAIN

SYNOPSIS

Walter, of Gurnea, illegitimate son of the Earl of Lonsford, leaves Oxford in 1772 after a fight with townspeople. He and another student, Tristram Griffen, set out for China. In Antioch, they call on Anthemius, a trader, who arranges for them to join a caravan going east. Among the gifts Anthemius is sending Kuba Khan is a very rare necklace, including Anthemius' own half-sister, Maryam. The Englishmen catch a glimpse of this girl, whose father was reputedly a European. Father Teah Theodore obtains a young servant, Mahmoud, for Walter and Tris, and the caravan gets under way.

CHAPTER NINE

"A MESSENGER has reached camp," announced Walter, shivering with the cold. "From Bayan of the Hundred Eyes. It seems we are not to see Maragha after all." Tristram got up from his seat in the shelter of the yurt. "What has happened now?"

"We are late, and Bayan is determined to be off without further delay. We join his main body at the junction of the road some miles from the city gates and start immediately for the East. The messenger says that the second caravan from Antioch is expected to reach the junction at the same time we do—in two more days. It's also said that Bayan is furious because he must take the women with him." The tall archer began to pace up and down, beating his hands against his sides to keep them warm. His lessons in Be-chu had not progressed, and he still depended on Walter for the news of the camp.

Darkness was falling so rapidly that Mahmoud had scrambled in frantic haste to get their yurt up in place. In a very short time the little servant called a cheery summons to the mess kettle, and both Englishmen hurried to obey it. Mahmoud asked in the smattering of trail words they used between them, "Like food, good massers?"

"Fine, you rascal," answered Walter. He added in an undertone, "to have the smartest thief in the whole caravan."

Tristram dipped into the kettle again for the drumstick of a chicken and heaved a deep sigh. "Do you suppose she is all right?" "Your lovely Maryam? I have heard no further reports of her."

Walter had seen her once only during all the long weeks since they had left Antioch, and Tristram not at all. It was late one afternoon, and with startling suddenness a yellowish gray fog had appeared above the horizon. A cry of "Sand! Sand!" had risen from one end of the caravan to the other. All rules were forgotten as they scrambled to get the tents up and to bank them with sand against the coming of the storm. Even some of the girls had joined in the frantic labor.

Tristram was helping Mahmoud to get their own quarters ready, and so Walter had hurried forward to aid the others. The yurts of the women had all been raised on a properly safeguarded before he departed. The storm was now ready to unleash its fury on them, and he was turning to run when he became aware that one of the girls had been working by his side. On some impulse she turned and looked up at him. She was wearing a light veil, and so he could not be entirely sure, but he believed it was the sister of Anthemus.

What happened then was against all the rules. Instead of flying away to her own quarters, she said something to him in an eager voice. When he failed to catch the words, she resorted to the desert formula of introduction, touching her breast and saying her name, "Bi, Maryam."

When he answered, "Bi, Walter," she started in surprise. She said "Wai-ter?" in a voice that suggested the name meant something to her. Then she smiled and cried, "Wai-ter, Lun-dun!" repeating in a kind of ecstasy, "Wai-ter, Lun-dun!"

The wind was howling about them now, and particles of sand were blowing against them, but they faced each other with no thought of their immediate safety. Walter raised his voice to carry over the roar of the elements, shouting in Greek: "London? What do you know of London?"

"My father . . ." The rest of her answer was lost in the mad screech of the wind. He stepped closer to her, holding up his cloak to shield her from the sand. "Do you mean your father came from London?" he asked. "And was his name Walter also?"

She nodded eagerly. "Yes, yes! Who are you? Oh, tell me you came from Lun-dun!"

"I am English." She leaned forward and touched his arm with an appealing gesture. She was speaking so rapidly that he could not follow what she said, but he was sure he caught one word, "Help!" In spite of the biting rain of sand, she threw back her veil, and he could see that her eyes were filled with excited tears. Again he made out the one word, "Help!"

At this moment a guard stumbled up to them and yanked the girl back angrily. He shouted something at the Englishman and then proceeded to drag her after him in the direction of the women's enclosure. In a few seconds the pair were lost to sight in the stinging wave of sand sweeping across the encampment. Walter turned and ran.

It took a full quarter hour of furious buffeting in the teeth of the wind to reach his own yurt. Once inside, he said to Tristram in a breathless voice, "I have news for you, Tris, something almost unbelievable."

"What is it? I was pretty thoroughly frightened, Wat. I had almost given you up." "You were right!" gasped Walter. "The girl is part English. I'll tell you all about it when I get this sand out of my throat."

A few minutes later he proceeded with his explanation. "I saw her, and we talked for a minute. Her father was English. His name was Walter, and he came from London. That was all I could get out of it, except that she feels desperately in need of help."

Tristram's face had lighted up eagerly. "Wai-ter, we must do something for her." Mahmoud called from the entrance of the yurt in his musical voice, "Someone comes, good massers."

It was Bird Who Feathers His Nest Lu Chung. He had been very much in evidence at every stage of the journey, acting in general as a camp seneschal and, if rumors were to be relied on, doing very well for himself on every transaction.

Speaking in the common tongue, he enunciated slowly, "Lowly Lu Chung has message for ears of mighty lords from West. Servant of mighty lords of West very good servant. Very good servant. But he has too much to do. Second boy needed. This humble one will see to it."

Walter asked, "What brings illustrious Lu Chung?" The giant Chinese got up and dropped the felt flap over the entrance. He leaned over to whisper: "Very secret matter. Noble lords will keep silent tongues?"

Walter nodded. "You may rely on us." "One word unwisely spoken—" Lu Chung made a gesture as though driving a blade into his own breast. Then he whispered, "This lowly one has talked to little black rose."

Knowing only that the clove, most desired of all Eastern spices, was frequently called that, Walter waited for further enlightenment. Lu Chung achieved a semblance of a smile. "I speak of lady," he said. "This lady different from others. She has great spirit, a tang like the black rose. The rest," with the greatest contempt, "are all tasteless as young squashes."

"Which of the ladies does worthy Lu Chung mean?"

"Beautiful sister of estimable Anthemus. She is in serious trouble. She has courage, but still she cry much at night. This humble one has made promise to help. At Maragha. Will noble lords also help?"

Walter was taken completely by surprise. It was several moments before he asked, "What could we do?"

"Very small part. It is possible noble lords might not know it even at time of doing. This most stupid one speaks now so noble lords be ready."

"Has the lady asked for our help?"

"Yes, young lord. She say Lu Chung come." His manner became still more secretive. "Others will help at Maragha. It is all arranged. Much pay for Lu Chung and also for noble lords."

"No pay!" said Walter, sharply. The plea of a lady in distress could not be disregarded, but he was finding it hard to accept the situation and the danger to his own plans involved in it. In spite of that, he added: "My friend and I will help. Tell me what we can do."

Lu Chung indulged in another of his hideous grins. "Good! Will tell lady. Can say no more now."

Walter demanded in a tone of exasperation, "How can we help if we are told nothing?"

"Wait. Trust unworthy Lu Chung." The giant bowed and backed toward the entrance. Here he paused and held out an expectant hand. "We reach town tomorrow with slave market. Lu Chung buy second boy for noble lords."

He began to twiddle his thick fingers. "Anthemus pay. But perhaps noble lords—"

There was no mistaking his meaning, and Walter fumbled reluctantly in the pouch under his belt. Bringing out a gold dinar, he dropped it in the rapacious palm.

"Good!" breathed Lu Chung. "Remember. Most silent tongue." When he had gone, Tristram asked, "What did the rascal want?"

"The chance we have been waiting for has come," said Walter. He proceeded to recount all that Lu Chung had told him.

A salesman in Missouri was held up in a small town because heavy rains had caused a wash-out on the railroad. "This looks like the flood," he observed to a waitress in the local hotel. "The what?" she asked. "The flood," he repeated. "You know the flood when Noah saved the animals on the ark. You must have read about that." The waitress assured him gravely, "Mister, on account of all this rain, I ain't seen a paper in four days."

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Korean Reds are beginning to look like any other second-division club in August.

Another few weeks and they'll be further than the Athletics from counting in a World's Series.

One of the British Empire's Scottish outfits is due at the front any moment now. . . these fellows are so good they don't even bother to put on their pants when they go gunning.

It's the same outfit that started a big Nazi retreat five years ago. A German general with defective field glasses saw them derived from it was won by the performers. I remember dining with Phil Silvers once when he told me of the haphazard way that he and the late, great Rags Ragland used to whip up some of their sketches, and the easy, carefree life lived backstage in the burlesque houses. It was a lovely life, but unfortunately, I think sober reflection will disclose little lovely or entertaining about the burlesque onstage.

TODD HAS ROUNDED UP A HANDFUL of old burlesque comics for his show, and while they struggle manfully and with all the cornball tricks they can think of, to offset their complete lack of material, they are far from $7.20 funnymen. Obviously for the publicity value, Todd has incorporated a song written by the King of Siam, under the nom de plume Bhumibol, into the score and it is dismal. Miss Lina Romay, a onetime singer with Xavier Cugat and one of the pleasantest show people I ever interviewed, has taken a big step toward tearing down a hard-won reputation by singing a single-entendre song called You've Never Been Loved. Bobby Clark, the comedian who is worshipped by some theater-goers but whose talents escape others, like me, entirely, has directed the skits under the nom de plume Mr. Robert Edwin Clark, Esq., and if he doesn't get his name whisked off the credits soon his whole professional life may be in jeopardy. They are that bad. And Mr. H. I. Phillips, the columnist, under the nom de plume H. I. Phillips, has written some of those sketches. So is wrecked what has been called a brilliant newspaper career.

But the big trouble with Peep Show is its vulgarity. Its women are undressed, no great crime in itself because the feminine form always is a delight to behold as long as it weighs less than 130 and stands taller than 5 feet 5. But their routines consist of what seems to be one long grind and bump. For about 10 minutes, these contortions are downright suggestive; after that, you acquire a morbid fascination about them and wonder if the girls involved are going to dislocate their pelvises.

I AM SORRY IF I AM BEING TOO BITTER and if I missed the refined part of the show by walking out after one act. But I had to get some fresh air, especially after watching one first-act sketch called The Shades of Night, which illustrates one of the oldest dirty jokes extant.

From now on, no longer will I wander along Broadway and long for the re-appearance of the Gaiety and Burlesque shows. Mr. Todd has brought us back burlesque, and, like the good old days, it is far from the masterpiece we have painted in our minds. In fact, as Tad used to put it succinctly, most of it's the bunk.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Michael Todd

NEW YORK—Nobody screamed louder than I did, a few years ago, when Fiorello H. LaGuardia, bristling with indignation and adame with the pure white heat of the reformer, shut down the burlesque houses in New York.

Not only did it appear as if he were doing away with a grand old tradition, but it seemed entirely out of keeping with his own personal nature, since the Little Flower was a beautifully profane man who, like General Grant, took a snort on occasion. For him to clamp a censorship on such an American institution as burlesque seemed almost hypocritical. I bellyached like all the other guys, about how some of the country's greatest comics came from the burlesque wheel, about how the skits were riotous, about how the gum-chewing chorines were so unintentionally hilarious and so on. I suppose if LaGuardia's action had come during the war, I would have said that that's what our boys were fighting for, in addition to the Brooklyn Dodgers and mom's apple pie.

But—and this is a resumption of an issue I brought up the other afternoon—the appearance of a new show along Broadway has changed my mind. Michael Todd, the cigar-smoking, horse-playing entrepreneur who until recently was married to Joan Blondell, has brought to town an extraordinarily vulgar revue called Peep Show. When I sat and watched half of it the other night before walking out, I realized that, disguised under a top price of $7.20 for orchestra seats, it was nothing more or less than our old friend burlesque, back on the shores of Manhattan. And the dark truth of the matter is, burlesque bears no resemblance to the great American art form that we precocious ones have claimed it to be, in the past.

With Peep Show as an example, the more I study the unique business of burlesque, the more I think that the only genuine fun ever

FLYING ARTILLERY

IN THE earlier stages of the Korean fighting the cry from the infantry was for more tactical air support. It was given with the best that was on hand. At the very outset Air Force jets were relegated to a back seat because they were too fast—and could stay too short a time over the combat area—for tank busting and beating up on the enemy men and equipment.

Things are different now. Jets and Navy carrier planes are ranging the battlefield in support of the beleaguered infantry. The B-26 medium, and B-29 heavy, bombers had been carrying out their traditional "strategic" roles in knocking out bridges, assembly plants, and the like far behind the front.

Last week, GIs in their foxholes along the east bank of the Naktong, where the Reds had been massing for a Sunday punch, beheld an awesome sight. In flights of 10, huge B-29s swept in to make low level attacks. About 100 of the huge planes dropped 3,500 "all-purpose" bombs weighing 500 pounds each.

The bombers left an area roughly three by seven miles churned, charred and smoking. Into this small rectangle the Reds had crammed an estimated 60,000 men and their equipment.

How much actual damage the flying artillery inflicted is still being evaluated. But the Communists have been treated to a terrifying display. They were shown that the ground-air team has a great deal more adaptability in the pinch than has been displayed up to this time.

WOMEN FOR DEFENSE

AGAIN, as in World War II, women are to play an important part in production and defense. With division after division being called to active service, women will be desperately needed. This will be especially true if several million men are in uniform, which is not outside the realms of possibility.

At the present time eight million wives hold jobs. Two and a half million additional women are available for employment if necessary. It is the purpose of the government to take inventory of the nation's women available for war duty.

At the peak of production during the last war women were receiving 38 per cent of industrial pay rolls. It is hoped that, should the need arise, the thousands of women who donned slacks during the last war, and did such splendid service in behalf of victory, will again put on the familiar garb and volunteer for duty.

It used to be that the boy, reaching 21, was too old to act like a child. Now some of them do it when past 60.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As this war proceeds, it becomes clearer and clearer that those upon whom the President depends most are Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Oscar L. Chapman, secretary of interior, W. Averell Harriman, advisor on foreign affairs, and General Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. And about in that order. John R. Steelman of the presidential secretariat also plays an important role, particularly on labor matters.

Stuart Symington is a businessman who has shown unusual administrative ability in the organization of the Air Force as a separate arm of the national defense. As secretary of the Air Force, he made a valiant fight for a 70-group force and stuck by his guns in spite of presidential opposition. He and James Forrestal disagreed on the ratio between Navy and Air Force expenditures; he also disagreed with Louis Johnson on the ratio of the Air Force to the total budget. There can be no question as to his ability.

Oscar L. Chapman is a New Deal bureaucrat who is now secretary of interior. Except for a short period as a probation officer in Colorado, his entire public and business career and experience has been limited to the Department of Interior.

Averell Harriman is the son of the great railroad builder from whom he inherited a large fortune. He has had some business experience, mostly of a directorial type. He has the distinction of attending practically every one of Mr. Roosevelt's conferences with Churchill or Stalin or both. Actually, he attended more such conferences, I think, than any one other person including the President himself. In recent years, he has been a roving ambassador associated with ECA. He is perhaps the only official still in the government, with the exception of David K. Niles, who knows exactly where the body is buried. He seems to be the only one in Mr. Roosevelt's immediate entourage who has not written a book about Roosevelt and his doings.

Averell Harriman can be useful to the President and the country because he knows, or should know, precisely how the Russians managed to snatch the victory in World War II away from us. He was in on every phase of that transaction. Whether he approved of all the steps taken by President Roosevelt or not, he has never disclosed publicly.

General Omar Bradley needs no particular introduction.

It grows increasingly obvious that Dean Acheson's influence has waned. He conducts a constant propaganda barrage against General Douglas MacArthur. The origin of these stories becomes known because the Acheson clique in the press and the radio are very well known and his line can be traced through them. He is being retained in office through Mr. Truman's sense of loyalty, but it is unthinkable that the President needs a secretary of state and also an advisor on foreign affairs, with the advisor senior in service and experience to the secretary. That sort of duplication can only mean that one is not needed.

The Black Rose

by THOMAS B. COSTAIN

SYNOPSIS Walter of Gurnea, illegitimate son of the Earl of Leicester, leaves Oxford in 1273 after a fight with townsmen. He and another student, Tristram, find out for China. In Antioch, they fall on a caravan, a trader, who arranges for them to join a caravan going east. Among the gifts Antiochus is sending Kublai Khan is a bevy of nubile beauties, including Antioch's own half-sister, Maryam. The Englishmen catch a glimpse of this girl, whose father was reputedly a European. Father Tristram Theodore, a young servant, Mahmoud, for Walter and Tris, and the caravan gets under way.

CHAPTER NINE

"A MESSENGER has reached camp," announced Walter, shivering with the cold. "From Bayan of the Hundred Eyes. It seems we are not to see Maragha after all."

Tristram got up from his seat in the shelter of the yurt. "What has happened now?" "We are late, and Bayan is determined to be off without further delay. We join his main body at a junction of the road some miles from the city gates and start immediately for the East. The messenger says that the second caravan from Antioch is expected to reach the junction at the same time we do—in two more days. It's also said that Bayan is furious because he must take the women with him."

The tall archer began to pace up and down, beating his hands against his sides to keep them warm. His words in a fit of impatience, and he still depended on Walter for the news of the camp.

Darkness was falling so rapidly that Mahmoud had scrambled in frantic haste to get their yurt up in place. In a very short time the little servant called a cheery summons to the mess kettle, and both Englishmen hurried to obey it. Mahmoud asked in the smattering of trail words they used between them, "Like food, good massers?"

"Fine, youascal," answered Walter. He added in an undertone, "We have the smartest thief in the whole caravan."

Tristram dipped into the kettle again for the drumstick of a chicken and heaved a deep sigh. "Do you suppose she is all right?" "Your lovely Maryam? I have heard no further reports of her."

Walter had seen her once only during all the long weeks since they had left Antioch, and Tristram not at all. It was late one afternoon, and with startling suddenness a yellowish fog had descended upon the horizon. A cry of "Sand! Sand!" had risen from one end of the caravan to the other. All rules were forgotten as they scrambled to get the tents up and to bank them with sand against the coming of the storm. Even some of the girls had joined in the frantic labor.

Tristram was helping Mahmoud to get their own quarters ready, and so Walter had hurried forward to aid the others. The yurts of the women had all been raised and properly safeguarded before he departed. The storm was now ready to unleash its fury on them, and he was turning to run when he became aware that one of the girls had been working by his side. On some impulse she turned and looked up at him. She was wearing a light veil, and so he could not be entirely sure, but he believed it was the sister of Antiochus.

What happened then was against all the rules. Instead of flying away to her own quarters, she said something to him in an eager voice. When he failed to catch the words, she resorted to the desert formula of introduction, touching her breast and saying her name, "Bi, Maryam."

When he answered, "Bi, Walter," she started in surprise. She said "Walter?" in a voice that suggested the name meant something to her. Then she smiled and cried, "Walter, Lun-dun!", repeating in a kind of ecstasy, "Walter, Lun-dun!"

The wind was howling about them now, and particles of sand were blowing against them, but they faced each other with no thought of their immediate safety. Walter raised his voice to carry over the roar of the elements, shouting in Greek: "London? What do you know of London?"

"My father..." The rest of her answer was lost in the mad screech of the wind.

He stepped closer to her, holding up his cloak to shield her from the sand. "Do you mean your father came from London?" he asked. "And was his name Walter also?"

She nodded eagerly. "Yes, yes! Who are you? Oh, tell me you came from Lun-dun!"

"I am English." She leaned forward and touched his arm with an appealing gesture. She was speaking so rapidly that he could not follow what she said, but he was sure he caught one word, "Help!"

In spite of the biting rain of sand, she threw back her veil, and he could see that her eyes were filled with excited tears. Again he made out the one word, "Help!"

At this moment a guard stumbled up to them and yanked the girl back angrily. He shouted something at the Englishman and then proceeded to drag her after him in the direction of the women's enclosure. In a few seconds the pair were lost to sight in the stinging wave of sand sweeping across the encampment. Walter turned and ran.

It took a full quarter hour of furious buffeting in the teeth of the wind to reach his own yurt. Once inside, he said to Tristram in a breathless voice, "I have news for you, Tris, something almost unbelievable."

"What is it? I was pretty thoroughly frightened, Wat. I had almost given you up."

"You were right!" gasped Walter. "The girl is part English. I'll tell you all about it when I get this sand out of my throat."

A few minutes later he proceeded with his explanation. "I saw her, and we talked for a minute. Her father was English. His name was Walter, and he came from London. That was all I could get out of it, except that she feels desperately in need of help."

Tristram's face had lighted up eagerly. "Wat, we must do something for her."

Mahmoud called from the entrance of the yurt in his musical voice, "Someone comes, good massers."

It was Bird Who Feathers His Nest Lu Chung. He had been very much in evidence at every stage of the journey, acting in general as a camp senechal and, if rumors were to be relied on, doing very well for himself on every transaction.

Speaking in the common tongue, he enunciated slowly, "Lowly Lu Chung has message for ears of you."

mighty lords from West. Servant of mighty lords of West very good servant. Very good servant. But he has too much to do. Second boy needed. This humble one will see to it.

Walter asked, "What brings illustrious Lu Chung?" The giant Chinese got up and dropped the felt flap over the entrance. He leaned over to whisper: "Very secret matter. Noble lords will keep silent tongues?"

Walter nodded. "You may rely on us."

"One word unwisely spoken—" Lu Chung made a gesture as though driving a blade into his own breast. Then he whispered, "This lowly one has talked to little black rose."

Knowing only that the clove, most desired of all Eastern spices, was frequently called that, Walter waited for further enlightenment. Lu Chung achieved a semblance of a smile. "I speak of lady," he said. "This lady different from others. She has great spirit, a tang like the black rose. The rest, with the greatest contempt, 'are all tasteless as young squashes.'"

"Which of the ladies does worthy Lu Chung mean?"

"Beautiful sister of estimable Antiochus. She is in serious trouble. She has courage, but still she cry much at night. This humble one has made promise to help. At Maragha. Will noble lords also help?"

Walter was taken completely by surprise. It was several moments before he asked, "What could we do?"

"Very small part. It is possible noble lords might not know it even at time of doing. This most stupid one speaks now so noble lords be ready."

"Has the lady asked for our help?"

"Yes, young lord. She say Lu Chung come." His manner became still more secretive. "Others will help at Maragha. It is all arranged. Much pay for Lu Chung and also for noble lords."

"No pay!" said Walter, sharply. The plea of a lady in distress could not be disregarded, but he was finding it hard to accept the situation and the danger to his own plans involved in it. In spite of that, he added: "My friend and I will help. Tell me what we can do."

Lu Chung indulged in another of his hideous grins. "Good! Will tell lady. Can say no more now." Walter demanded in a tone of exasperation, "How can we help if we are told nothing?"

"Wait. Trust unworthy Lu Chung." The giant bowed and backed toward the entrance. Here he paused and held out an expectant hand. "We reach town tomorrow with slave market. Lu Chung buy second boy for noble lords."

He began to twiddle his thick fingers. "Antiochus pay. But perhaps noble lords—"

There was no mistaking his meaning, and Walter fumbled reluctantly in the pouch under his belt. Bringing out a gold dinar, he dropped it in the rapacious palm.

ABNORMAL CONDITIONS MAKE PHONE WIRES HUM . . .

If you occasionally are delayed in completing your long distance calls these days, there's a reason for it.

The reason is that the calling load has been aggravated by the Korean situation, market fluctuations, merchandise orders, and other factors, thereby straining long distance telephone facilities beyond their normal capacity.

During the past several weeks long distance usage has been from 25 to 30 percent above normal, and it should be borne in mind that other telephone companies with which we connect are having difficulties, too. In short, the condition is not confined to any local area; it is nation wide.

We are making extra efforts to handle this increased traffic load. Meanwhile, your tolerance and understanding will be appreciated.

Ohio Takes Eighth Place
In Nation's Meat Producers

Ohio ranked 8th among all states in meat output last year, with an estimated production of about 880 million pounds of meat on its farms, according to a statement just issued by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

The Board also points out the importance of Ohio as a livestock and meat state by calling attention to the fact that the cash sales of Ohio meat animals last year totalled $331,437,000, or an average of 907 thousand dollars per day.

Of this total, cattle and calf sales accounted for $118,636,000, hogs $201,815,000, and sheep and lambs $10,986,000.

The total meat output in the United States last year, according to the Board, was 21 billion, 879 million pounds.

The average per capita consumption of meat in the nation last year was 143.8 pounds, including 63.4 pounds of beef, 8.7 pounds of veal, 4.1 pounds of lamb and mutton and 67.6 pounds of pork.

In spite of the fact that the country's population has grown by some 19 million persons in the past ten years, the average per capita consumption of meat annually is higher now than in 1940.

DeSoto Workers
Call Strike

DETROIT, Aug. 23—Production employees walked out of the Chrysler Corporation's Wyoming avenue De Soto plant today, apparently in sympathy with "unauthorized" strikes at two other Chrysler plants. The stoppage boosted the number of Chrysler strike-idle to nearly 6,200.

Previously, 200 strikers and sympathizers picketed the Highways to some 2,700 workers and a similar demonstration closed the Dearborn De Soto plant, employing 690.

The Wyoming plant walkout occurred a few hours after violence broke out briefly on the Highland Park picket line and Tool Grinder James McGuirk, 58, was severely beaten by four pickets. He was taken to Ford hospital "with a possible skull fracture."

The strikers, members of the United Auto Workers—CIO tied up the Highland Park and Dearborn plants in protest against alleged shifts in company production and classification policies.

Air Companies
Are Cleared

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23—The Curtiss-Wright Corp., the Wright Aeronautical Corp., and various officials of the two firms are cleared today of charges they delivered defective airplane parts for use in World War II.

The sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals in Cincinnati dismissed the government's seven-year-old multi-million dollar damage suit against them late yesterday on agreement by attorneys for both sides.

The government, in its original suit, filed July 10, 1943, asked for more than 12 million dollars in damages. The suit previously had been dismissed by the U. S. district court.

Wonder Drug Gets Tooth Paste Role

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The wonder drug penicillin is about to make its bow in a new role—an ingredient in toothpaste.

But the Andrew Jergens Co., makers of "denticillin," made it clear that the dentifrice can be sold only upon a dentist's prescription.

The makers quoted Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, federal food and drug commissioner, as saying that the toothpaste reduced cavities by 55 per cent in a clinical test with 400 Walpole, Mass., school children.

SALES OVER $331 MILLION

Ohio Takes Eighth Place
In Nation's Meat Producers

Ohio ranked 8th among all states in meat output last year, with an estimated production of about 880 million pounds of meat on its farms, according to a statement just issued by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

The Board also points out the importance of Ohio as a livestock and meat state by calling attention to the fact that the cash sales of Ohio meat animals last year totalled $331,437,000, or an average of 907 thousand dollars per day.

Of this total, cattle and calf sales accounted for $118,636,000, hogs $201,815,000, and sheep and lambs $10,986,000.

The total meat output in the United States last year, according to the Board, was 21 billion, 879 million pounds.

The average per capita consumption of meat in the nation last year was 143.8 pounds, including 63.4 pounds of beef, 8.7 pounds of veal, 4.1 pounds of lamb and mutton and 67.6 pounds of pork.

In spite of the fact that the country's population has grown by some 19 million persons in the past ten years, the average per capita consumption of meat annually is higher now than in 1940.

DeSoto Workers
Call Strike

DETROIT, Aug. 23—Production employees walked out of the Chrysler Corporation's Wyoming Avenue De Soto plant today, apparently in sympathy with "unauthorized" strikes at two other Chrysler plants. The stoppage boosted the number of Chrysler strike-idle to nearly 6,200.

Previously, 200-strikers and sympathizers picketed the Highways to some 2,700 workers and a similar demonstration closed the Dearborn De Soto plant, employing 690.

The Wyoming plant walkout occurred a few hours after violence broke out briefly on the Highland Park picket line and Tool Grinder James McGuirk, 58, was severely beaten by four pickets. He was taken to Ford hospital "with a possible skull fracture."

The strikers, members of the United Auto Workers—CIO tied up the Highland Park and Dearborn plants in protest against alleged shifts in company production and classification policies.

Air Companies
Are Cleared

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23—The Curtiss-Wright Corp., the Wright Aeronautical Corp., and various officials of the two firms are cleared today of charges they delivered defective airplane parts for use in World War II.

The sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals in Cincinnati dismissed the government's seven-year-old multi-million dollar damage suit against them late yesterday on agreement by attorneys for both sides.

The government, in its original suit, filed July 10, 1943, asked for more than 12 million dollars in damages. The suit previously had been dismissed by the U. S. district court.

Sokolsky's

Furthermore, Dean Acheson's usefulness is limited by two factors: one, that the center of our problem is Asia, concerning which he has never been correct; secondly, that, in time of war, the commander of the troops does what he has to and General MacArthur mistrusts Dean Acheson and is aware of the antagonistic emanations from the State Department, particularly since the general's visit to Formosa. In time of war, that sort of sniping is unforgivable.

A major weakness in this situation is the absence of productive skill within the government. We shall win or lose World War III, as we defeated the enemy in World War I and World War II, because of our productive capacity. Bernard Baruch took charge of that in World War I and delegated authority to an extraordinarily competent group of industrialists. In World War II, William S. Knudsen, Charles E. Wilson of General Electric, William L. Batt and a host of other industrialists gave us a magnificent performance. We out-produced the world.

No such arrangements are being made in this war. Instead, industrial production is being handled by bureaucrats who have never produced anything but memoranda and red-tape. This is a dangerous lapse in organization for war and could be costly in American lives.

Those who do not know how, cannot produce.

FAMILIAR HITLER DEVICES

U.S., Britain Credited With UN Win Over Russia

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 23—The United States and Britain were credited today with scoring an important UN propaganda victory over Russia in branding peace offensives as the Hitler tools for aggression.

Joining hands to ride down Soviet Security Council Chairman Jacob Malik's renewed assertions that "ruling circles" in the U. S. and Britain are responsible for the "American aggression" in Korea, Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin and Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb fired rapid broadsides which last night silenced the Russian for the first time since Aug. 1.

Without further efforts to compel an earlier meeting, he agreed to adjournment of the Security Council until Friday at 3 p. m.

Before leaving, the Security Council received notice from France that a battalion of crack French troops would be sent to Korea for service under the UN flag. At the same time, India's Pandit Nehru announced he had no intention of going to Communist China, a blow to Soviet hopes.

Austin described Malik's accusations of American and British "aggression and imperialist designs" on Korea as "applesauce!" He drew the council's attention to the fact that Malik is using three familiar Hitler devices in staging his propaganda offensives against the non-Soviet world, namely:

1. The "big lie."
2. Concealing guilt by accusation.
3. The "false label" trick.

AUSTIN warned that yielding in any manner to Malik, such as inviting the North Korean "soulless zombie regime to the council table, would be placing a premium on aggression." He continued:

"The Soviet delegate has read to this council carbon copies of the falsehoods being spread all over the world by misguided minorities who support Communist imperialism."

He threw his harpoon at Malik harder by likening the Soviet tactics to the thief's cry of "stop thief!" to confuse the policeman in making a getaway. He rapped Russia's allegations that the U. S. is drawing other nations into the Korean war for ulterior motives by declaring that Malik is judging others by himself. He continued:

"This is a philosophy worthy of some witch doctor who has created so many soulless zombies in his own graveyard that he ends up believing the earth is peopled entirely by such creatures."

Previously, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb struck in the same tone at Malik and declared that

FAMILIAR HITLER DEVICES

U.S., Britain Credited With UN Win Over Russia

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 23—The United States and Britain were credited today with scoring an important UN propaganda victory over Russia in branding peace offensives as the Hitler tools for aggression.

Joining hands to ride down Soviet Security Council Chairman Jacob Malik's renewed assertions that "ruling circles" in the U. S. and Britain are responsible for the "American aggression" in Korea, Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin and Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb fired rapid broadsides which last night silenced the Russian for the first time since Aug. 1.

Without further efforts to compel an earlier meeting, he agreed to adjournment of the Security Council until Friday at 3 p. m.

Before leaving, the Security Council received notice from France that a battalion of crack French troops would be sent to Korea for service under the UN flag. At the same time, India's Pandit Nehru announced he had no intention of going to Communist China, a blow to Soviet hopes.

Austin described Malik's accusations of American and British "aggression and imperialist designs" on Korea as "apple-sauce!" He drew the council's attention to the fact that Malik is using three familiar Hitler devices in staging his propaganda offensives against the non-Soviet world, namely:

1. The "big lie."
2. Concealing guilt by accusation.
3. The "false label" trick.

AUSTIN warned that yielding in any manner to Malik, such as inviting the North Korean "soulless zombie regime" to the council table, would be placing a premium on aggression. He continued:

"The Soviet delegate has read to this council carbon copies of the falsehoods being spread all over the world by misguided minorities who support Communist imperialism."

He threw his harpoon at Malik harder by likening the Soviet tactics to the thief's cry of "stop thief" to confuse the policeman in making a getaway. He rapped Russia's allegations that the U. S. is drawing other nations into the Korean war for ulterior motives by declaring that Malik is judging others by himself. He continued:

"This is a philosophy worthy of some witch doctor who has created so many soulless zombies in his own graveyard that he ends up believing the earth is peopled entirely by such creatures."

Previously, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb struck in the same tone at Malik and declared that Communist peace offensives mask planned aggressions. He cited as example Stalin's claim in 1939 that France and Britain had attacked Hitler's Germany and refused to accept Russia's intervention for peace.

Said Jebb: "If Stalin himself subscribed to this remarkable theory of aggression in 1939, who is going to believe Soviet theories of aggression in 1950?"

TERMITES
Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no your property is not infested they charge for the inspection, and if will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

For Her Home Her Family and Her Self

WHILE THIS is only the middle of August the weather makes one think of Fall and duck hunting in the swamps and hoot owls in the evenings—it also brings to mind—
Fall housecleaning and renovating—Why not give the house a beauty treatment—get new VENETIAN BLINDS and note the difference in the appearance of your home. They will transform an ordinary looking house into one of beauty. When buying ask for Venetian blinds of Flexalum, they stay beautiful because they stay clean. With vinyl plastic tapes to match the famous Flexalum spring tempered slat—in heavy and durability. MASON FURNITURE.

STEP ON IT—the new Dunlop FOAM RUBBER MAT-TRESS that with stands wear, and does not need turning—fits your body and is so restful——allergy free too. Moth proof, vermin proof and cool. Because of its natural antiseptic properties this material will not require the renovating necessary with other mattresses. It may be sprayed, sponged or soaked with a mild antiseptic solution such as Lysol if extra precautions need be taken—positively the latest word in bed mattresses. WARD'S UPHOLSTERY.

TOUGH AS they come—PEERLESS concrete floor enamel will wear—and wear—and wear. Peerless, with its modern, rubber-base of Goodyear's "Pholite" has been designed to take the hard wear to which concrete floors are subjected. Because it retains its colorful beauty, in spite of repeated washings and scrubbing—even with strong cleaning solutions—home-owners find it unusually easy to keep clean. Construction and Maintenance engineers also find it particularly effective for painting and protecting industrial floors, garages, dairies, bakeries, etc. For further information regarding prices etc., consult your dealer—BASIC CONSTRUCTION MATERIALS.

PETER, PETER Pumpkin eater, had a wife and couldn't keep her—if he had varied his menu, tried WATER-MELONS even as a side-dish she might have remained. If you hurry you may take your choice from about 200 of rich, ripe, delicious watermelons at PALM'S GROCERY & CARRY OUT. The melons average in weight between 22 and 24 pounds each and sell for only 59c.

TERMITE
Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no your property is not infested they charge for the inspection, and if will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS. Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning. An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning. The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD. Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it. We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

Red Sox Win Eighth Game To Threaten

Cleveland Is 3rd With Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 — That supposedly dead body in Boston is not only warm, it's moving. Those Red Sox are rampaging. The American League's pre-season pennant favorites, long ago consigned to a convict's burial after the miserable start that helped cause Manager Joe McCarthy's resignation, were running like the giant tuna today. Winners of eight straight—their longest credit string of the year—the Red Sox still stood fourth in the standings. But they were only five and a half games off the top, the same spread that separated second-place Brooklyn from first-place Philadelphia in the National League. What's more, the Red Sox have two more quick games coming up with the St. Louis Browns, their most beloved doormats.

THE GENERAL bandboxing of the American League standings was most noticeable in New York, where the second-place Yankees engaged the first-place Tigers and all but obliterated their stripes. Yogi Berra touched Hal White for a two-run single in the first inning.

When the remains had been swept, the Yanks had prevailed 13 to 6—it was Allie Reynolds' 11th victory—and Yogi had gotten himself another single, a triple and a home run for six runs batted in.

That closed the gap between the Tigers and Yankees to two and a half games—with two more contests between the twain today and tomorrow.

Cleveland did its part, too. The Indians moved to within three and a half games of the pace by scotching the Washington Senators 5 to 1 under the lights at Washington. Al Rosen got three hits, batting in one run and scoring two others to help Bob Feller to his 12th victory. Ex-Indian Gene Bearden was the loser.

THE BOYS are still on the treadmill in the National League. The second-place Dodgers won one of those exhausting things they always seem to get involv-

Patty To Enter National Singles

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Seedings and pairings for next week's National Singles Tournament will be announced at today's draw by the United States lawn tennis association — and Budge Patty, the French and Wimbledon champ, is definitely in.

Patty, colorful star from Los Angeles, was left off the U. S. Davis Cup squad because of an injured ankle. But a test run on the taped-up ankle yesterday convinced him he can do business in the Nationals, which begin their eight-day run at Forest Hills next Monday directly after the weekend Davis Cup challenge round between the U. S. and Australia.

Also announcing their definite presence in the nationals were two foreign aces—Jaroslav Drobny, hard-hitting Czech southpaw now registering from Egypt, and Gustavo Palafios, who scored Mexico's lone singles victory over Australia in Davis Cup interzone play.

The USLTA announced meanwhile the makeup of its Junior Wightman Cup Team, which will serve as a sort of "farm system" to produce eventual Wightman Cup women stars.

Top Hatters Book Game Here

Top Hat softball team is scheduled to meet Diamond Power of Lancaster at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Ted Lewis Park. The Hatters, winners of the district tournament crown, will play their first game in the state championship tourney Friday in Toledo. They are slated to meet the winners of district six in their first tilt.

ed in when they play Pittsburgh, taking a 10-8 decision.

But in Cincinnati, the startling Phils went right on a winning. They got a run in the ninth to dent the Reds, 4 to 3.

Singles by Richie Ashburn, Willie Jones and Del Ennis with one out broke the 3-3 deadlock and gave Robin Roberts the decision over Ken Raffensberger. Roberts thus became the National League's first 17-game winner of 1950.

The win for the pennant-headed Quakers was their 15th in 18 games against the Reds—and their fifth one-run victory over Cincinnati.

In the Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game, Roy Campanella's 24th homerun with two men on was the big blow in an evening of assorted big blows.

Boston Braves crept back into third place, one percentage point ahead of St. Louis, by beating the Cards 5 to 1 behind Vern Bickford's six-hit pitching. The triumph, Bickford's 15th, saw Sid Gordon score one run and bat in three others with a trio of doubles.

In the National League's only day game, the New York Giants scored five times in the sixth inning to overtake the Chicago Cubs and beat them 6 to 5.

LOCAL LAKE TALK AVOIDED

Conservation Chiefs Here For Discussion, Look-See

A district meeting of conservation chiefs and game protectors was held Tuesday in Gold Cliff Park to discuss conservation problems.

More than 40 department heads and protectors attended the session to talk of the coming hunting seasons and plan for inspections of game refuges.

Protector Clarence Francis of Pickaway County was to have conducted the department heads on an inspection of the county's 11 principal game shelters, early Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the local game warden announced that he has received a shipment of about 350 "range-hardened" pheasants for release in the county. They are to be released Wednesday or Thursday.

Francis said that the birds are about half female, half roosters.

THE LOCAL game man reported that other protectors in the fifth district report that squirrel season in southern Ohio this year should be very good. The season opens Sept. 15 and continues through Sept. 30.

Meanwhile, a local survey made by Francis and protectors from surrounding counties reveals that pheasant and rabbit hunting prospects here look good for this fall. The season will open Nov. 15.

English Channel Swimmers Attempt More Crossings

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 23—Two veteran channel swimmers—one a champagne-swilling Belgian and the other an English boy too young for the stuff—stroked away in opposite direction today in attempts to repeat their performances. And a couple of novices quit in the middle.

Fernand Du Moulin, 34-yearcussed during the gathering of the conservation men was the fact that seven lakes—including the much-fouled-up Pickaway County Memorial Lake and park in Devil's Backbone—will have to have the dams reconstructed to hold water.

The local project has been held up until next Spring because of a reported planning mistake on the earth-filled dam which will not properly back up the headwaters of Hargus Creek.

old Belgian who last year after a champagne party swam across what is fast becoming the world's most-surmounted insurmountable obstacle course launched himself at 8:36 p. m. Monday with more of the same.

Headed for him in the opposite direction—from west to east—was Philip Mickman, 19, who conquered the treacherous channel tides last year in a westward crossing.

Mickman began his attempt from Shakespeare Beach in the Dover area at 1:45 a. m.

George Alphonsi of Marseilles was hauled from the waters about an hour after walking into the surf at 1:09 a. m. from Cap Gris Nez. He was reported to be suffering from a possible attack of appendicitis.

Jos De Waal of the Netherlands plunged into the waves at 2:27 a. m., nine minutes before Du Moulin dined his two glasses of champagne and plunged into the non-intoxicating brine. De Waal said he hoped to make the crossing in ten hours, but after five of them he gave up.

Red Sox Win Eighth Game To Threaten

Cleveland Is 3rd With Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 — That supposedly dead body in Boston is not only warm, it's moving. Those Red Sox are rampaging. The American League's pre-season pennant favorites, long ago consigned to a convict's burial after the miserable start that helped cause Manager Joe McCarthy's resignation, were running like the giant tuna today. Winners of eight straight—their longest credit string of the year—the Red Sox still stood fourth in the standings. But they were only five and a half games off the top, the same spread that separated second-place Brooklyn from first-place Philadelphia in the National League. What's more, the Red Sox have two more quick games coming up with the St. Louis Browns, their most beloved doormats.

THE GENERAL bandboxing of the American League standings was most noticeable in New York, where the second-place Yankees engaged the first-place Tigers and all but obliterated their stripes. Yogi Berra touched Hal White for a two-run single in the first inning.

When the remains had been swept, the Yanks had prevailed 13 to 6—it was Allie Reynolds' 11th victory—and Yogi had gotten himself another single, a triple and a home run for six runs batted in.

That closed the gap between the Tigers and Yankees to two and a half games—with two more contests between the twain today and tomorrow.

Cleveland did its part, too. The Indians moved to within three and a half games of the pace by scotching the Washington Senators 5 to 1 under the lights at Washington. Al Rosen got three hits, batting in one run and scoring two others to help Bob Feller to his 12th victory. Ex-Indian Gene Bearden was the loser.

THE BOYS are still on the treadmill in the National League. The second-place Dodgers won one of those exhausting things they always seem to get involv-

Patty To Enter National Singles

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Seedings and pairings for next week's National Singles Tournament will be announced at today's draw by the United States lawn tennis association—and Budge Patty, the French and Wimbledon champ, is definitely in.

Patty, colorful star from Los Angeles, was left off the U. S. Davis Cup squad because of an injured ankle. But a test run on the taped-up ankle yesterday convinced him he can do business in the Nationals, which begin their eight-day run at Forest Hills next Monday directly after the weekend Davis Cup challenge round between the U. S. and Australia.

Also announcing their definite presence in the nationals were two foreign aces—Jaroslav Drobny, hard-hitting Czech southpaw now registering from Egypt, and Gustavo Palafox, who scored Mexico's lone singles victory over Australia in Davis Cup interzone play.

The USLTA announced meanwhile the makeup of its Junior Wightman Cup Team, which will serve as a sort of "farm system" to produce eventual Wightman Cup women stars.

Top Hatters Book Game Here

Top Hat softball team is scheduled to meet Diamond Power of Lancaster at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Ted Lewis Park.

The Hatters, winners of the district tournament crown, will play their first game in the state championship tourney Friday in Toledo. They are slated to meet the winners of district six in their first tilt.

ed in when they play Pittsburgh, taking a 10-8 decision.

But in Cincinnati, the startling Phils went right on a winning. They got a run in the ninth to dent the Reds, 4 to 3.

Singles by Richie Ashburn, Willie Jones and Del Ennis with one out broke the 3-3 deadlock and gave Robin Roberts the decision over Ken Raffensberger. Roberts thus became the National League's first 17-game winner of 1950.

The win for the pennant-headed Quakers was their 15th in 18 games against the Reds—and their fifth one-run victory over Cincinnati.

In the Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game, Roy Campanella's 24th homerun with two men on was the big blow in an evening of assorted big blows.

Boston Braves crept back into third place, one percentage point ahead of St. Louis, by beating the Cards 5 to 1 behind Vern Bickford's six-hit pitching. The triumph, Bickford's 15th, saw Sid Gordon score one run and bat in three others with a trio of doubles.

In the National League's only day game, the New York Giants scored five times in the sixth inning to overtake the Chicago Cubs and beat them 6 to 5.

5,500 Enrollments Expected In Pickaway Schools

Teachers Meetings Are Set

City Schools Out For Pumpkin Show

Approximately 5,500 Pickaway County boys and girls are expected to be enrolled in school by mid-September.

Nearly 3,800 youngsters are expected to attend the opening sessions of schools in the Pickaway County system when doors open Sept. 5.

Circleville schools are expected to greet about 1,750 youngsters when the doors are opened in the city Sept. 11.

The county school opening will be preceded by a superintendent's meeting Sept. 1 and a teachers' organizational meeting Sept. 4.

County Superintendent George D. McDowell said that estimates made by various enumerators in the county show that approximately 2,850 elementary children are expected to attend school this fall along with 950 high school boys and girls.

FRANK FISCHER superintendent of Circleville schools, said local enumeration reports show that nearly 180 youngsters will begin their first year of school here Sept. 11.

First scheduled activity other than direct schoolwork for the Circleville youngsters will be the opening of football season Sept. 15 when the CHS Tiger team meets Holy Rosary of Columbus on the local gridiron.

In addition, city youngsters will be given a day-and-a-half vacation during Pumpkin Show week while dismissal for the annual Pumpkin Show is not recommended in the county schools.

Teachers and pupils alike are to receive a one-day vacation Nov. 3 for the annual Central Ohio Teachers' Association meeting in Columbus.

First sports activity now planned for the county schools will be Nov. 10, when the Pickaway County Basketball League will begin.

Both city and county schools will be given vacations Thursday and Friday for Thanksgiving holidays, while both will begin Christmas vacations Dec. 22.

Michigan could provide the United States with salt, at its present consumption, for a million years, it is estimated.

Ferguson Renews 'Soap Scandal' Accusation

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23 — The Mutual Chemical Co., of Columbus, target of a "soap scandal" accusation hurled at the Lausche administration by defeated Republican gubernatorial aspirant James A. Rhodes, was accused anew today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson with owing the state $19,471.

Ferguson said the company, owned by John Moore, owed that amount to the state's penal industries as the result of illegal payments made when Moore was on the state payroll as a chemist consultant.

Ferguson reported that the state still is holding $8,105 for which Moore's company billed the state. The auditor said "the vendor is not entitled to payment based on the same reasons as the findings for recovery."

The report listing the finding for recovery said Moore was hired as a consultant Sept. 1, 1949, and then set up formulas for the production of soap, disinfectant, and other products manufactured at the London Prison Farm.

Moore recommended to the department heads that the materials for the manufacture be purchased from the Mutual Chemical and Supply Co., in which he was a partner. Some of the materials, Ferguson said, were listed only by the code number known to the Mutual firm, which meant that only Mutual could bid on supplying them.

Fire Damage Set At $20,000

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23 — Flames whipped up an elevator shaft and spread through three floors of the Schofield Building early today causing an estimated $20,000 damage.

Second Assistant Fire Chief Ferdinand Boehmer said the blaze apparently started in freight elevator motors.

Boehmer said the flames were prevented from spreading throughout the entire 14 story building by the freight elevator, which had been left standing at the fourth floor.

Window glass in the scorched offices was cracked and blown out by the heat and flames.

State Purchases Orphans' Home

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23 — The State Welfare Department announced today it has completed purchase of the General Protestant Orphans' Home property in Cincinnati for $300,000.

Director J. H. Lamneck said a contract to remodel the structure into a receiving hospital "should be let within the next several months."

The legislature appropriated $900,000 to buy, remodel and equip the building as one of a planned chain of nine receiving hospitals throughout the state.

the auditor said, showed they were common chemicals.

Ferguson based his report on an investigation during which his aides collected 164 pages of testimony, affidavits and recommendations.

Voters To Decide Daylight Saving

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23 — The question of daylight saving time in Cleveland will be decided by voters again in November.

A campaign to end daylight time in the city almost fell short of its mark last night when it was reported that nearly half of the 50,000 petition signatures turned in by sponsors of the drive were not those of registered Cleveland voters.

Of the 48,223 signatures checked against board of elections records, 25,026 were found acceptable and 23,197 not acceptable.

Only 24,573 valid signatures were needed to get the standard-time charter amendment on the ballot. Some 1,500 signatures remained unchecked after the required number was reached.

5,500 Enrollments Expected In Pickaway Schools

Teachers Meetings Are Set

City Schools Out For Pumpkin Show

Approximately 5,500 Pickaway County boys and girls are expected to be enrolled in school by mid-September.

Nearly 3,800 youngsters are expected to attend the opening sessions of schools in the Pickaway County system when doors open Sept. 5.

Circleville schools are expected to greet about 1,750 youngsters when the doors are opened in the city Sept. 11.

The county school opening will be preceded by a superintendent's meeting Sept. 1 and a teachers' organizational meeting Sept. 4.

County Superintendent George D. McDowell said that estimates made by various enumerators in the county show that approximately 2,850 elementary children are expected to attend school this fall along with 950 high school boys and girls.

FRANK FISCHER superintendent of Circleville schools, said local enumeration reports show that nearly 180 youngsters will begin their first year of school here Sept. 11.

First scheduled activity other than direct schoolwork for the Circleville youngsters will be the opening of football season Sept. 15 when the CHS Tiger team meets Holy Rosary of Columbus on the local gridiron.

In addition, city youngsters will be given a day-and-a-half vacation during Pumpkin Show week while dismissal for the annual Pumpkin Show is not recommended in the county schools.

Teachers and pupils alike are to receive a one-day vacation Nov. 3 for the annual Central Ohio Teachers' Association meeting in Columbus.

First sports activity now planned for the county schools will be Nov. 10, when the Pickaway County Basketball League will begin.

Both city and county schools will be given vacations Thursday and Friday for Thanksgiving holidays, while both will begin Christmas vacations Dec. 22.

Ferguson Renews 'Soap Scandal' Accusation

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23 — The Mutual Chemical Co., of Columbus, target of a "soap scandal" accusation hurled at the Lausche administration by defeated Republican gubernatorial aspirant James A. Rhodes, was accused anew today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson on owing the state $19,471.

Ferguson said the company, owned by John Moore, owed that amount to the state's penal industries as the result of illegal payments made when Moore was on the state payroll as a chemist consultant.

Ferguson reported that the state still is holding $8,105 for which Moore's company billed the state. The auditor said "the vendor is not entitled to payment based on the same reasons as the findings for recovery."

The report listing the finding for recovery said Moore was hired as a consultant Sept. 1, 1949, and then set up formulas for the production of soap, disinfectant, and other products manufactured at the London Prison Farm.

Moore recommended to the department heads that the materials for the manufacture be purchased from the Mutual Chemical and Supply Co., in which he was a partner. Some of the materials, Ferguson said, were listed only by the code number known to the Mutual firm, which meant that only Mutual could bid on supplying them.

Fire Damage Set At $20,000

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23 — Flames whipped up an elevator shaft and spread through three floors of the Schofield Building early today causing an estimated $20,000 damage.

Second Assistant Fire Chief Ferdinand Boehmer said the blaze apparently started in freight elevator motors.

Boehmer said the flames were prevented from spreading throughout the entire 14 story building by the freight elevator, which had been left standing at the fourth floor.

Window glass in the scorched offices was cracked and blown out by the heat and flames.
